

People like Zoe Kay need your help

Zoe Kay is a sweet and lovable 2-year-old who was recently diagnosed with a rare disease called Langerhans Cell Histiocytosis. She is currently undergoing chemotherapy and has received numerous blood transfusions. “We thank God each and every day for the wonderful little girl He has given us. She brings so much joy and love into our lives every day,” says Zoe’s mom, Kayla. When you give blood, you help people like Zoe Kay. Please take some time from your day to help children like Zoe Kay and the countless others who rely on lifesaving blood.
